Lakewood Ranch Boo Run 5K

For the first time in the US and perhaps anywhere, a mainstream long established 5K race has gone vegan. The Lakewood Ranch Boo Run will be a vegan foodie delight. Club board member Ellen Jaffe Jones, currently a nationally ranked sprinter for her age group who has placed in 130 5K or longer races, had a dream to cross a race finish line just once and not have to breathe charred animal remains for post race food. Not to mention after running 3 miles, bacon couldn’t be more unappetizing. In part, reacting to the growth of “Bacon 5Ks” Ellen offered to become the race primary sponsor to create a vegan post-race food event.

First time a mainstream race has EVER promoted vegan post-race food. First Watch, Smoothie King and others are donating vegan food. PCRM is supplying material for all goody bags and has offered to send out letter to their lists of local people who might support.

Please support this inaugural event. As you can imagine, we need all the vegan support we can get!

FVA supports Yes on Amendment 13

We need your voice now to help thousands of dogs this November. If citizens vote Yes on Amendment 13, commercial dog racing will be phased out in Florida by 2020. Right now thousands of greyhounds endure lives of confinement at dog tracks, and a racing dog dies every three days. It’s time for this cruelty to end!

History awaits the greyhounds this fall. On Election Day, the voters of Florida will have the opportunity to turn back the hands of time and end dog racing in its most established state. As many as 8,000 lucky greyhounds stand to receive the second chance they deserve, closing out nearly 100 years of exploitation and cruelty.

Kept in warehouse style kennels, in rows of stacked metal cages for 20-23 hours a day, the dogs are fed a diet based on raw, diseased meat. When let out of their cages to race several times a month, they face the risk of serious injury. Broken legs, crushed skulls, snapped necks, paralysis and heat strokes are common. Some dogs have even been electrocuted while racing. According to information gathered by the state’s Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering, a greyhound dies every three days at Florida’s eleven racetracks.

Dog racing is now illegal in 40 states and since 1990, the amount of money wagered on dog racing in the Sunshine State has plummeted by 74%. Tax revenue has declined by 98% and the tracks themselves now lose a combined $34 million. If it were not for a state mandate requiring racetracks to offer a minimum number of races as the platform for other, more popular forms of gambling, this antiquated activity would have ended long ago. Until it does, the state will continue to waste as much as $3.3 million per year regulating a dying industry.

Statewide polling shows that Florida voters will vote to end dog racing if they are fully informed about its humane and economic problems. You can help the greyhounds by learning learn more about Amendment 13 and by spreading the word that it’s time to set the greyhounds free.

GOOD NEWS

Aug 2018: Puppy & Kitten Mills Banned in England. Environment secretary, Michael Gove, announced a new regulation that means anyone wanting to buy or adopt a puppy or kitten will only be able to do so directly from a licensed breeder or a rescue center. Breeders will only be allowed to sell puppies they have personally bred, and any online sellers will be obligated to publish their license numbers along with the pet’s country of origin and country of residence. This new ban comes on the back of the Lucy’s Law Campaign led by a coalition of animal rights charities. This campaign was started after a severely malnourished Spaniel was rescued from a breeding site, where it is thought she was forced to breed several times a year. Her puppies were taken from her at just four weeks old, half the recommended age.

Aug 2018: Recent Study shows Pigs Intelligence. A new study performed by researchers from the Messerli Research Institute at Vetmeduni Vienna shows that they are even smarter than any of us could have imagined! The study proves that pigs have greater learning and visual cognitive abilities than previously thought. Previous studies confirmed that pigs not only are curious and capable of learning but also have good long-term memory, deliberately deceive other pigs, and can even anticipate needs and intentions. During the study, pigs were first trained to recognize the front and back of two-dimensional human heads. The overall results of the tests showed that the group of pigs trained to recognize the backs of the heads made the correct choice an impressive 80 percent of the time. The group trained to recognize the faces succeeded 50 percent of the time, while both groups had no preference when shown only front views that were missing the eyes and mouths. The study shows the complexity in which pigs can think, their visual cognitive skills, and that they have preferences. It’s just another reason as to why these intelligent creatures deserve so much more respect than they are given as being thought of as just food.

Aug 2018: Animal crackers' animals "freed" as boxes get new look. Mondelez International, the parent company of Nabisco, has redesigned the packaging of its Barnum's Animals crackers showing the animals without bars, after relenting to pressure from People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals. The new boxes feature a zebra, elephant, lion, giraffe and gorilla wandering side-by-side in a grassland. The outline of acacia trees can be seen in the distance.
